Cobra offers new line of marine radios

Cobra recently announced plans to release entry-level and professional-grade marine products. The 2005 Cobra Marine™ line contains industry-leading features and a dedication to safety.

The new entry-level models include all US, Canadian and International VHF channels, water resistance and 10 built-in NOAA channels, which provide 24-hour access to local weather information. The professional-grade handheld radios are bundled with numerous accessories that consumers typically purchase separately. They include a drop-in charger with both AC and DC adapters. The MR HH400 XVP includes 2100 NiMH rechargeable batteries, providing more power and longer life between charges than any other battery in the industry. In addition, an industry-leading three-year warranty is included in all professional-grade models.

Also included in the 2005 line are Cobra's cutting-edge fixed mount VHF transceivers, as well as a full line of new power inverters. The fixed mount transceivers include a premium model that is an industry first with its 2-inch channel numbers on the largest LCD available on comparably priced fixed radios.

This model also features a combined speaker/microphone with volume and channel controls and instant 9/16 button. The power inverters are available in 400-, 800-, 1500- and 2200-watt models. All four units feature GFCI AC outlets to protect against shock — the first 400- and 800-watt models available with this fundamental safety feature.

The entire Cobra Marine Radio Line is now available for sale at Radioworld, Canada's leading radio and GPS supplier located at 4335 Steeles Ave West, Toronto, ON or online at <http://www.radioworld.ca>.

Correction

Ontario Sailor Magazine incorrectly stated in its May 2005 edition that Holland Marine Products offers the Pettit Marine Paint's antifouling Vivid.

A press release by Martin Flory Group incorrectly listed Holland Marine Products as a distributor.

Ontario Sailor Magazine regrets the error.
